PUBLISHER'S NOTE

A shower in summer is cooling, refreshing and restorative to the body. It is a welcome gesture of Nature. But a shower of wisdom from the Ultimate, is exhilarating and uplifting as it tranquillises a ruffled mind and provides elixir to a drooping heart. To the youth it is a boon as it insulates their pure and unsullied hearts against the corrosive influence of lust, greed, jealousy and hatred with which our present society is infested. It is Sai's Sankalpa (resolve) to generate generations of young men and women of calibre and character to ameliorate the society physically, mentally, emotionally and spiritually so that the promised Golden Age is no more far to reach.

Summer Course in Indian Culture and Spirituality has maintained its freshness and fragrance coupled with a high standard of learning throughout the past three decades, thanks to the Divine inspiration and guidance from Bhagawan, the Source of all and everything.

The thirteen Discourses of the Divine crowned the daily deliberations of the Summer Course of 2002 are bound to provide a grand feast to the mind and heart of every reader of this volume.

I prayerfully place this volume at the Lotus Feet of Beloved Bhagawan whose unfailing words of Benediction will restore the pristine glory of Man.
